Walt Weiskopf European Quartet announces
2022 international winter tour of their latest album
“Introspection 2.0”

New York, NY. – American saxophonist, composer, and author Walt Weiskopf and his European quartet announce their fifth, in-person winter tour, hitting the international jazz circuit throughout Europe and Scandinavia. Commencing in Poland, the Walt Weiskopf European Quartet (WWEQ) three-week tour will also perform in Denmark, Belgium, Germany, France, and Spain through January and February 2022.

Along with Weiskopf, WWEQ includes three of Europe's finest and most sought-after rhythm section artists Carl Winther (piano), Andreas Lang (bass), and Anders Mogensen (drums) who continue to comprise the WWEQ musical force, making impressive marks and attracting worldwide attention.

Earlier this year and because of world travel limitations, WWEQ remotely recorded “Introspection 2.0,” an extension to their 2020 “Introspection” album, from three different locations (Weiskopf/U.S.A.; Mogensen and Winther/Denmark; and Lang/Germany). The album was released this past October with critical acclaim:

“It’s surely the ultimate test of cohesion... Weiskopf sounds like a controlled Coltrane...,” says Chris Pearson of The Times of London in a four-star review of “Introspection.”

“Introspection 2.0” can be found on Spotify and other streaming platforms.

Says Weiskopf about this year’s remote recording experience, “To be able to continue making music and bring it to the people who love music despite the limits of travel and proximity, is ultimately very empowering and gratifying. I am now very happy to be able to perform this music in-person, with my quartet, in one room.”

At the conclusion of the tour, WWEQ will record new material in Copenhagen where Weiskopf will continue to collaborate and showcase the convergence of the talents of Winther, Lang and Mogensen.
